Test the Soothing Action of the Empire TeatCups

Visit some dairy near you where they are using Empires. If you don't happen to know of one visit us and we'll direct you. Ask the man to let you test the action of the teat cup. Put your thumb in it. Then you'll understand why cowlike the Empire why they let down easily and give more milk and get so essential when the teat is at work. If you're pulling 10 or more cows you should use the Empire Milking Machine. Write or phone us.

What Is Going On Tonight.
Pythian Sisters, Purinton, Temple No. 2, meets at 807 Main street.

All arrangements have been made for the third annual parade and field day of the Thread City Centennial Drum corps of Willimantic, which is to be held here Saturday. About twenty five, flute, drum and bugle corps have notified the committee that they will attend, and Chairman Charles L. Thompson is preparing for them.

Among the corps that have forwarded entries for the various contests are: Landcraft Ancient of New Haven, Maple Corps of Stamford; Devon School Corps of Milford; Prophylactic Drum Corps of Florence, Mass.; Corticello Thread Corps, Leeds, Mass.; Audubonville Corps of Andover, Mass.; Fire King Drum Corps of Pawtucket, R. I.; Eagle Zeavens of Moosup; Silk City Flute band, South Manchester; Cheebro Flute and Drum Corps of Stonington; Plainville Ancient of Plainville; Syrian-American Flute and Drum Corps, Worcester, Mass.; St. Anne's Flute and Bugle Corps, Waterbury; T. M. Russell Flute band of Middletown.

Headquarters for the visiting corps is to be at the Valley street armory. It shall Odell M. Chapman has issued order for all corps to report by 1.30 p. m. The parade will start at 2 o'clock, the line of march to be as follows: Down Valley street, to Jackson street, return up Union street to Lincoln square, up Main street to Bridge street, counter-march down Main street to Recreation park. The parade will then be dismissed.

At 2 o'clock the contests in field music will begin for the twenty-two prizes of gold and silver loving cups, and medals, which will include first and second silver cups for best appearance of Ancient, Modern, Flute Drum and Bugle Corps and Piccolo and Flute Bands; first and second silver cups for best playing. Ancient, Modern and Flute Drum and Bugle Corps; first and second silver cups for best piccolo or flute bands. Prizes will also be awarded for corps conducting the longest march; most music in line; most spectacular corps; best equipped corps and best appearing majors.

Exercises during the evening beginning at 8 o'clock will take place at the state armory on Pleasant street, under the auspices of Company G, Connecticut National Guard. The awarding of prizes will take place at 10 o'clock. The committees in charge are: Field day, Charles L. Thompson, chairman, Major Odell M. Chapman, park, John Simmons, chairman, armory, William F. Richards, chairman, Charles L. Thompson, secretary; James H. Daley, treasurer.

At the opening of court Attorney P. J. Danahy introduced a certified copy of the deed of the land now occupied by the corporation of the town of Stafford, dated in 1866 and 1881, respectively, also an agreement between William Higgins of New first half-holiday and defendant regarding the occupancy of the land by the latter.

Robert E. Mitchell of this city, civil engineer for the past twenty-seven years, was the first witness for the defense and told of making measurements Wednesday morning of the farm, so called. He measured the east and west boundaries of the lot. The first distance of ninety rods north from the highway brought him within a few feet of the creek. The other distance, 62 rods 15 inches, brought him to the old stump and the abutment of the cross wall marking the boundary of the Richmond property. A sketch of the measurements was given to the court.

On cross examination Mr. Mitchell said he did not know the land was a 1916 lot, but just the depth of the extremities as he was asked to do. The figures were furnished by Mr. Harvey from a deed he held. He used a hundred foot tape, and the measurements along the eastern boundary were along the top of a stone wall which was practically straight.

George J. Root, the defendant, testified that he had lived on the Moulton place for years since coming September. He admitted cutting brush there in August but did not carry it away. It is still there. Marra had cut chestnut trees on the disputed land, but brush was used to be pasture land, but brush was now on it. He stopped work where he was to put up a woven wire fence because he had other work to do and the process was not served until January 16th of this year. He had cut wood on the lot fifteen years ago for Mr. Hall and the latter showed him the boundary lines, which ran from the end of the crooked wall to the Richmond wall. Attorney Danahy objected to this testimony as being hearsay, but the court allowed it. Attorney Danahy taking an exception. Witness denied threatening to cut wood on the Marra land. He denied that he could not settle the case if it went against him. His property there was worth two thousand dollars.

On cross examination, asked by Mr. Danahy if he was in the habit of paying his bills Mr. Root replied that he owed no one. When he and Mr. Hall talked of the boundary there was no fence there. He saw stones there and fence rails to the south of them. At that time he cut ten cord of gray oak. Asked about the trees cut by Marra he said it was done a year ago last fall and he forbade him cutting more. Marra came to him later and asked permission to use the driveway across his land.

saying he was sorry and would cut no more trees on the disputed land. John Lynch had told him the line ran from the crooked oak to the intersection of the wall.

John A. Webster, of Windham, whose property adjoins Marra's, told of a talk he had with Marra and the latter's son Roland when they were cutting wood there, 23 years ago. They were talking about the large pine tree and the elder Haley said the tree was on the boundary line. He remembered the rail fence which was built when he was a boy, and said that Haley told him it was not the line, but was built to keep sheep out of the woods.

On cross examination, Webster admitted he and Marra were not on friendly terms. The last time he was on the property it was with Root to aid in searching for some goats that had strayed away.

Following the noon recess at 2.30 o'clock announcement was made that the opposing counsel had agreed that the case be withdrawn from the jury and the issue, owing to its technicality, be left to the court. Judge Marvin informed the members of the panel, extended his sincere thanks for their attention during the case and on previous ones. They were then informed that their services would be required no longer on this term and were dismissed.

Arguments were then made by the court, at the conclusion of which Judge Marvin announced that he would reserve his decision. Court adjourned until 10 o'clock this (Friday) morning when a short calendar session will be held and the calling of the docket will take place.
